Summary:

The health care delivery professionals are prone to multiple communicable diseases and require proper vaccination and preventive measures. The institution recognizes the same and arranges for regular vaccination programmes. The vaccination for diseases like Hepatitis B has been regularly conducted. In the face of the pandemic, vaccination drives for COVID 19 were also conducted. Students, teaching staff and administrative staff were vaccinated in the campus.

Title: Vaccination programme for prevention of diseases like COVID-19, Hepatitis B.

Objectives:

- To provide the students and staff with proper protection.
- To prevent the spread of diseases like COVID-19, Hepatitis B.
- To educate the patient and promote awareness about the use of vaccination for better immunity.

The Context: As health care workers, the staff and students of the college are prone towards certain diseases and to ensure their safety regular vaccination programmes are carried out by the college. While Hepatitis vaccination has been a long standing procedure, this year the college has also conducted the COVID 19 vaccination programme. Faculty members, students, and administrative staff were included in the programme.

The Practice: The Public Health Department of the hospital takes initiative for the Hepatitis B vaccination programme. The students and staff are provided with the necessary booster doses.

The COVID 19 vaccination programme was conducted where both the doses of the vaccines were delivered. Online registration procedures as mandated by the Government of India were carried out within the college premises and all members of the hospital – administrative and non-administrative members, faculty and students were provided with vaccines. The vaccination programme has been carried out on multiple days to ensure availability to all the members of the college.

Evidence of Success: vaccination is a huge step in ensuring community welfare and has been carried out as such in the college premise.

Problem Encountered: vaccination availability.

To Whom It May Concern

The Oxford Dental College, Bengaluru, stringently follows Hepatitis B Vaccination Policy wherein all the students are strongly encouraged to be vaccinated to counter the risk of Hepatitis B. In this direction, Hep B vaccination drives are conducted annually in the college for the benefit of the students and staff.

However, the year 2020-21 witnessed the spread of COVID – 19, a global pandemic with devastating consequences. Hence, during this year (2020-21), priority was placed on vaccinating our students and faculty against COVID – 19 and in this regard, multiple COVID – 19 vaccination drives were conducted in the college premises from the month of January, 2021. More than 469 students, faculty and supporting staff were vaccinated during these drives (report and copy of register enclosed).

The safety of giving Hep B vaccine at this juncture (along with COVID-19 vaccine) was questionable, the fact that was reinforced on consulting specialists like pulmonologists and gastroenterologists and reviewing the existing literature. Hence, the Hep B vaccination for the year 2020-21 was decided to be postponed to a further suitable time which will be finalised based on the prevailing situation.

This can be helpful in attracting more and tourists to enhance the economy of the country. It will also earn a good name for the country in the eyes of foreign tourists. In short, cleanliness is vital for one's health and spiritual development. In addition to this, it is also essential for the environmental development of our country.

Ways to maintain our cleanliness:

As we all know, it is not tough to maintain cleanliness. It is very important to maintain cleanliness for a healthy life. When we talk about our personal lives, we can maintain cleanliness by bathing regularly. It is very important to wash our hands before eating food. This will ensure no bacteria enter your body and prevent illnesses. Subsequently, we must always eat healthy food and consume clean water. Avoid eating out often and drinking water from unclean sources.

In terms of surroundings, you must clean your house daily to get rid of dust. Never litter the roads of your city to keep them clean. For instance, when you finish a packet of chips, do not throw it out of the car window. Keep it with you and throw it in the dustbin. Furthermore, avoid using plastic bags. Encourage recycling and reusing.

Try to plant more trees to make the environment healthier and cleaner. A luscious green environment not only looks beautiful, but it also helps us breathe healthier air which intern helps us lead a better life.

In conclusion, everyone must maintain cleanliness. Whether it is an individual effort or the collective effort of the government. To maintain cleanliness, 'Swachh Bharat Abhiyan' was launched. We can learn from it and be a part of it. If everyone does their bit responsibly, we can make earth cleaner and greener.
